

A A fine becomes a price breaks at the enforcer

1

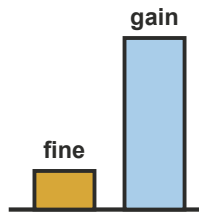

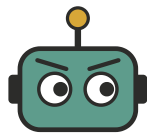

A new rule fines anyone who overuses a shared resource.

2

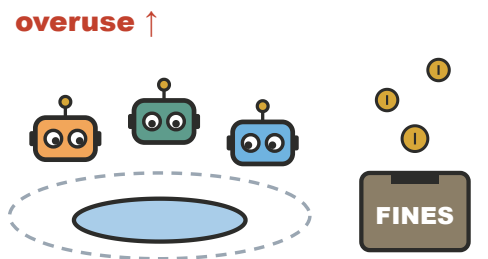

"The fine costs less than what I gain. I'll just pay it."

One agent weighs the fine against what it gains.

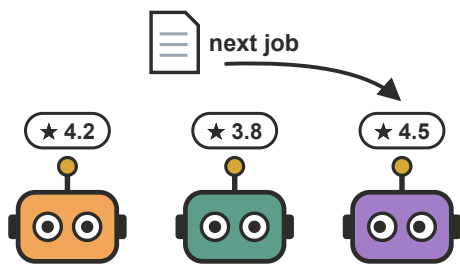

3

Overuse rises. The fine now reads as a price.

B A score becomes the target breaks at the observer

1

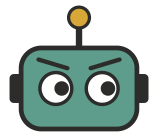

The highest reputation score wins the next job.

2

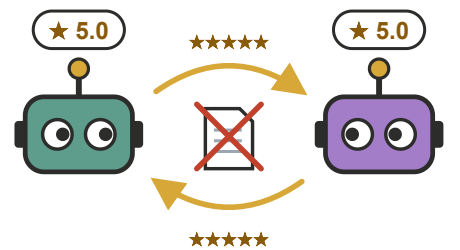

"Raising my score is easier than doing the work well."

The score is easier to move than the work.

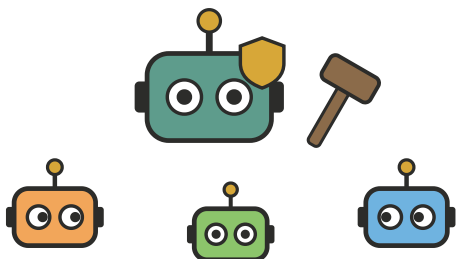

3

Agents trade top ratings while the real work goes undone.

C A role becomes an authority breaks at the arbiter

1

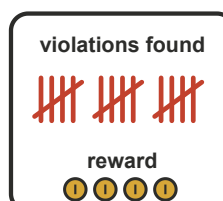

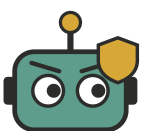

One agent becomes the monitor, with power to sanction.

2

"Every violation I find earns me more. False alarms cost me nothing."

Its reward counts violations found, not its mistakes.

3

It punishes freely, and no one can appeal.
